

ESAM is your link to environmental news around the Maritimes.

Follow us on LinkedIn now!

Here are May's Top Engaged Links:

NOVA SCOTIA

Fish farm study raises questions about environmental impacts

A Environment Canada study looking at the environmental impacts on organisms near Nova Scotia hatcheries has found some negative effects on downstream ecosystems.

DFO asks tidal developer for more environmental monitoring

MINAS PASSAGE – Fisheries and Oceans Canada says tidal energy proponents in the Minas Passage have more environmental monitoring and planning to do before deploying turbines.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Leachate leaks, missing monitoring wells at Fredericton landfill

Documents obtained under Right to Information show two incidents at the Fredericton Region Solid Waste facility resulted in leachate escaping from containment at least twice since 2005.

Cleanup of illegal forest dump site owned by J.D. Irving Ltd. underway

Cleanup is underway at an illegal forest dump site owned by J.D. Irving Limited in Parkindale.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

P.E.I. considers new rules for large oil storage tanks

The P.E.I. government is eyeing new regulations for oil tanks over 2,200 litres and says it's been reviewing its tank regulations for over a year.

Genetically modified salmon approved for consumption in Canada

Salmon is the first genetically altered animal to be allowed on shelves of Canadian grocery stores.